Fall Semester, 2006Stephen Melamed, Industrial Design, College of Architecture & Arts
Albert Page, Marketing, College of Business Administration
Michael J. Scott, Engineering, College of EngineeringAssignment*No. 5 Team Name & Team Logo*Project Description

Now that teams have been established, and main topics for investigation have been selected and assigned to the teams, it is time to begin to establish a team identity for your newly formed group. Keep in mind, that this interdisciplinary group will be your home base for the duration of the entire academic year, 2006-2007. It is vital to establish the right spirit for success and cooperation from the very beginning... in order to help facilitate this process, every group is to brainstorm unique names for your team. A name that captures your particular team's spirit as well as the essence of your year-long assignment.

In addition to creating, and/or selecting a team name, every group must then create a team logo. This graphic representation of your team name and mission will be the brand mark that is carried on all your future presentation materials to both the faculty and the Motorola management. The designers in each group will implement the actual graphic logo, but it is important that all team members participate in the idea generation and selection process. The faculty recommends that the designers create several possible options in a sketch format and then present those options to the team as a whole. The selection and refinement of the selected concept should be a team exercise. Also, keep in mind that the logo could be comprised of type (an altered font for example), or an illustration, or a combination of the two. Examples of team logos from previous years is available on the IPD web site for your general reference.

Once developed, the designers from each team will be required to provide the faculty with a digital file of the final logo design. The file(s) must be prepared in a native Adobe Illustrator (vector based) file format, B&W/gray scale saved at an image size not to exceed 8.0" x 8.0" at 300DPI. A second file, in color, if applicable, should also be provided. The teams should consider the design of their logos with and without color, scaled to various sizes, and take into account the different possible applications in which it will be used (eg. computer presentations, printed on documents, placed on models, etc.).

Project Requirements

1. Brainstorm and select a team name.
2. Create a team logo. Provide Illustrator files of B&W/gray scale and color files of final logo concept uploaded to IPD ftp site. Entitle each file with the team's name and type, for example, team Hyrdo B&W file would be: Hyrdo-BW-logo.il or for color, Hyrdo-color-logo.il.
